DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. The amendments and arguments presented by the applicant have been duly noted. In view of such, the previous rejections in the first office action have been withdrawn. However, an update search and further review of the prior art of record has prompted the presentation of new rejections presented below.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claim 7 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Rusch (U.S. Patent Number 5,148,986) in view of Daiket et al. (GB 2,111,420) and further in view of Trapani et al. (U.S. Patent Number 5,014,916) or Stasi et al. (U.S. Patent Number 5,275,336).

Rusch discloses a high-pressure thermal spray gun. Referring to Fig.2, the nozzle member 32 has separate annular gas channels 90,92 therein receptive respectively of oxygen and the combination gas from the combustion gas from respective annular spaces 70,72. The gas channels meet at an annular cavity 86 constituting a mixing zone. The gas channels are respective annular channels separated by a cylindrical baffle 96 disposed in the space between the inner and outer portions of the nozzle member. The burner nozzle 32 extends into a gas cap 14 which has a combustion chamber 42. Rusch discloses a tube 106 with a central passage 108 for powder delivered to the chamber 42. However, Rusch does not disclose a central passage to deliver a feed wire of metallic spray coating material. Daiket et al. disclose central passage can be used to deliver a wire in the same field of endeavor for the purpose of providing coating material. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide the apparatus of Rusch with a feed wire in view of Daiket et al. so as to deliver coating material. Trapani et al. and Stasi et al. disclose the angle may be any angle greater than zero and generally should be from about  $30^{\circ}$  to at least  $60^{\circ}$  (Trapani) or  $30^{\circ}$  to  $90^{\circ}$  (Stasi et al.) in the same field of endeavor for the purpose of discharging material. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide the apparatus of Rusch and Daiket et al. with a radial angle in view of Trapani et al. so as to discharge material.

Allowable Subject Matter

4. Claims 1,2 and 4-6 are allowed.
5. Claim 8 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
6. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Chen-Wen Jiang whose telephone number is (703) 308-0275. The examiner can normally be reached on Tuesday-Friday from 7:00 to 5:30.
